Cosmetic Solutions has put together some of the most common questions about sunscreen to help you choose the sunscreen that will help you stay protected:

What is SPF?

SPF, which stands for sun protection factor, is the most commonly known identifier of a sunscreen product. An SPF of 10 means that your skin will be able to tolerate 10 times more UVB exposure than an SPF of 1.

Don't sweat it with BOTOX® Cosmetic

BOTOX® isn't just for wrinkles anymore. Among its many uses is treating excessive sweating, a condition known as hyperhidrosis that can be debilitating and socially embarrassing.

Primary hyperhidrosis is characterized by equal perspiration under both arms, which interferes with daily living, stops during sleep, begins before age 25 and appears among family members. Secondary hyperhidrosis is a variation of primary hyperhidrosis and can be the result of a medical condition.

If you are seeking treatment for excessive sweating, you should be evaluated by a physician to see if the problem is primary or secondary.

Just one visit to Cosmetic Solutions can eliminate problems with sweating for up to one year, although some people will see recurrence of sweating in 3-6 months. During the visit, you will receive multiple injections with a very small needle under each arm. A topical anesthetic can be applied one hour prior to treatment. You will likely see results in less than one week.

Serious side effects are rare. Common reactions include redness, swelling, tenderness, bleeding and bruising. To learn more go to www.botoxseveresweating.com

Featured Product: NEW SkinMedica SPF 50

Skin Medica has expanded its line with a very water resistant, full spectrum UVA/UVB defense sunscreen. It is a wonderful new product that is oil free, PABA free, and with a fragrance-free formulation.

The SPF 50+ is ideal for extended sun exposure and for active lifestyles that need water/sweat resistance with long lasting defense. In addition to a higher SPF, it includes a new advanced patented technology called UV ProPlex.
